

We, the undersigned groups, urge you to become a co-sponsor of Senator Markey's, Generating Resilient, Environmentally Exceptional National (GREEN) Streets Act. The bill will reduce greenhouse gas emissions (GHG) , advance environmental justice, and create resilient transportation systems.

The climate crisis is not coming. It is here now. This bill is an important step towards addressing the crisis on the scale that is needed.

The transportation sector is the largest source of GHG emissions in the United States. Government investments that solely focus on adding and widening roads only result in more car trips. This continually increases emissions and makes our communities less healthy. Creating car-oriented communities has other negative outcomes as well, such as creating barriers for access and connectivity to jobs and services, and exacerbating air pollution.

Senator Markey's bill will alleviate GHG emissions from the nation's roads, enhance access and connectivity in communities, and promote environmental justice and climate resilience in our transportation systems. Prioritizing alternative transportation options, such as public transit and active transportation, is crucial for states addressing climate change.

Specifically, the bill will build on the U.S. Department of Transportation's existing authority to establish GHG-related performance measures by:

- Directing the Secretary of Transportation to create minimum standards for states to use to reduce GHG emissions, per capita vehicle miles traveled (VMT), and air pollution on public roads
- Requiring states and metropolitan planning organizations (MPOs) to consider projects and strategies that reduce per capita VMT and GHG emissions
- Requiring states and MPOs to analyze, and make public, impacts on environmental justice communities, emissions, and VMT for projects over

$25 million that increase traffic capacity

We urge you to co-sponsor this important legislation.
